Dual Diagnosis is a specialist service for people adversely affected by substance use and mental illness. We provide clinical case support to people who:

- have been diagnosed as having a severe chronic Axis I mental illness
- are current clients of mental health services (community mental health team or inpatient)
- have an identified psychiatrist and key worker within the referring service (including Older Adult services)
- are seen by their key worker at least monthly
- are dependent on or are misusing alcohol and/or other drugs
- require assertive, mobile, long term follow-up

We support a collaborative approach and have regular contact with the referring service.

Dual Diagnosis is available for consultation about treatment planning for clients of mental health services who have co-existing substance use, abuse or dependence. Consultation includes direct client contact. We will assess the client and make recommendation/s regarding treatment.

It is our preference that clients are aware of and have given consent for referrals to the Dual Diagnosis service.

Referrers of tangata whai ora should refer directly to Te Ātea Marinō and of Pacific peoples to Tupu. (Note: clients have a choice and if they wish can remain with the Dual Diagnosis service).
